

Government

Government is the study of the foundations, and principles upon which the American and foreign governmental systems are based and how they operate in past and present societies. The Evangel University Government program examines the Christian heritage of American policy makers and integrates faith-inspired discussion of past and current government systems.

The following Program Learning Outcomes have been established by Evangel faculty to define the areas of knowledge and skills that students graduating from this major degree program should have developed.

1. Students will explain the structure, principles, and processes of the American federal government.
2. Students will demonstrate an understanding of the background, development, problems, and Constitutional aspects of church-state relations in the United States.
3. Students will demonstrate the ability to treat government as a discipline and a science utilizing research and writing methods utilized in government research and reports within the areas of public opinion, policy, political systems, and analysis.
